

Lancaster Arts is seeking dynamic and committed individuals to join our Lancaster Arts Board (LAB).

This is an extraordinary time to be working in the arts; exciting and full of opportunities to reshape what we do whilst strengthening much needed stability and resilience. We believe these two needs can work together with imagination, a commitment to finding new ways of working and a passion for how the arts and higher education can work together to shape new futures for all, especially the more marginalised amongst us.

Lancaster Arts has been a part of the National Portfolio of Arts Council England as a Combined Arts organisation for 12 years and is integral to Lancaster University, a leading university with associate campuses across the world. Lancaster Arts connects local audiences and artists with global practitioners. We have a decades-long inter/national reputation for supporting & presenting high quality & live cutting-edge work. The LAB plays a critical role in overseeing and guiding LA and reports directly to the University's Arts Strategy Committee. Members will act as ambassadors and enablers of the programme, bringing critical friendship with new and fresh ideas for the vision and direction of the organisation.

The LAB Terms of Reference are available upon request:
